Announcement

The News is authorized to announce the name of Luther Hardaway as a candidate for the office of County Superintendent of Schools subject to the vote of the people in the annual school election in April.

An Explanation.

If our friend who made us the subject of a gentle (?) roast in a letter sent through the mail last week had signed his (or her as the case may be) name to the epistle, we would have taken pleasure in writing her a little of explanation. But, as is so often the case, the author of such letters are ashamed to sign their name to it, we are at a loss to know who to explain to. Therefore, we will make this explanation general, as there are possible others who might make a similar mistake of forming wrong conclusions by reason of not understanding the situation.

Our friend is greatly offended because that a certain article which she sent in failed to appear in the paper at the time she expected it. This caused her to conclude that the non-appearance of her article was because that in our opinion it was not worthy of a place in the paper; that the author was not high-toned enough to suit us; that if it had been sent in by a more important personage it might have met a different fate; that less important items receive better treatment, etc., etc.

Now, our friend could not have come farther from the truth. Instead of being discriminated against we wish to assure her that her article received exactly the same treatment that it would under the same circumstances if sent by any other person. As a matter of fact, there were a number of other articles that failed to appear in the very same issue that our friend expected to see her contribution.

Now we will tell why these articles failed to appear on schedule time. Anyone who will stop to think will readily see that some items must appear at a certain time or they will be out of date. There are other things that will do just as well at one time as another. Our friend's article came under the latter class. Hence, it will be readily understood, when it becomes necessary to leave some matter for a later issue, that the class which will be as appropriate for one issue as another will be the ones left over.

There is only one class of reading matter that we are particular ly prejudiced against, and that is anything that has any indication of maliciousness behind it. We have no hesitancy whatever about consigning anything of this character to the waste basket where it properly belongs and where it can do no harm. All other kinds of contributions, we are always glad to receive from our readers, and all will receive the same kindly consideration.

Above everything else, it has been our aim to treat everybody alike. Should anything arise to make any person think that they were not getting a "square deal" at our hands, we trust that they will not jump at conclusions as did our above mentioned friend. We are sure that if you understand the situation you will have no cause for offense, as we hope will be the case with our friend when she reads this.

To Equalize the Matter.

Some of our subscribers pay for their paper a year in advance; some pay at the end of the year, while others pay up once in two or three years. The subscriber who pays for a year in advance is out the use of the dollar for the year and we get the use of it for that year. To be strictly fair about it the one who pays for the year in advance is entitled to a little more than the one that does not. To equalize the matter we are going to, from now until further notice, give as a premium The Kansas City Weekly Journal for one year to every subscriber who desires it, who pays for the Jasper News for one year in advance.

Although, as far as we know, Luther Hardaway has no opposition in his race for re-election as county school superintendent, let Jasper, his old home town, give him a rousing vote next month for good luck.

Spirit and Purpose of the Zemstvo of Russia

By ALEXANDER STOLYPIN.

Political Editor of the Novoe Vremya, St. Petersburg.

IT IS demonstrable that the conflict now proceeding in Russia is nowise directed against the monarchical principles, to which the people are very devoted, but against the usurpation by the bureaucracy of all the vital functions of the nation.

The Zemstvo cannot be a revolutionary, and still less anarchistic element, for the simple reason that it is composed of landholders, and the ideals pursued by the proletariat of labor—although they may be temporarily adopted by the Zemstvo in its campaign for freedom—are necessarily objectionable and even terrible to it.

The Zemstvo institution exists in 34 provinces or governments of European Russia. The members of the provincial Zemstvos are elected by the members of the district Zemstvos, which number 318; the members of the district bodies are elected by direct vote in the electoral colleges of each class of the community. The contingent of members returned by the peasants is strictly limited, and, as the number of peasants' electoral colleges is in excess of this contingent, the governor makes a selection. The ukase of December 25, 1904, provides for the creation of small Zemstvo units which will represent the villages and bear the same relation to the district Zemstvo that the latter now bears to the provincial body.

There also exists a secret organization which virtually unites the 34 Zemstvos in a clandestine national assembly. Quite recently this organization was treated as illegal and subjected to persecution by the government, but now it is not directly interfered with, although still unrecognized by law.

Besides building and endowing schools, the Russian Zemstvo has developed and organized a number of other public enterprises, including statistical, veterinary, and, most important of all, national medical services.

One of the reproaches constantly brought by the government against the Zemstvo is that it employs outsiders; clerks, statisticians, teachers, physicians and other representatives of the liberal professions, who form an imposing army of revolutionary workers. Although unenfranchised, they none the less acquire the character of members of the Zemstvo, and exercise great influence among the people.

In justice it must be said that these men—the third estate as they are called—are the personification of all that is strong, energetic and businesslike in Russia. And the failure of the government to bring these men to its side is a great mistake.

A Chicago Alderman Owes His Election To Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"I can heartily and conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for affections of the throat and lungs," says Hon. John Shenick, 220 So. Peoria St., Chicago. "Two years ago during a political campaign, I caught cold after being overheated, which irritated my throat and I was finally compelled to stop, as I could not squeak aloud. In my extremity a friend advised me to use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I took 2 doses that afternoon and could not believe my senses when I found the next morning the inflammation had largely subsided. I took several doses that day kept right on talking through the campaign, and I thank this medicine that I won my seat in the council." This remedy is for sale by Webb Bros.
